Web Seminar Training for Your District

Would you like to start the school year with a webinar in-service about TeachingBooks exclusively for your staff? All that your colleagues would need to do is sit at their computers and learn directly from us! We're looking for a handful of school districts that would like to receive personalized webinar trainings as we begin to implement this free service. We'll train your staff, and you'll help us learn how to best conduct these webinars. If you're interested, please contact our Operations Manager, John H. Moore, at john@teachingbooks.net.

New Curriculum Connections Newsletter

Invite all of your colleagues to receive the inaugural issue of Curriculum Connections — a School Library Journal / TeachingBooks.net free electronic newsletter with multimedia resources and annotated bibliographies that enliven ways to integrate new books into the K-12 classroom and library.

Register now at <http://teachingbooks.net/lists.cgi> to receive this free monthly e-newsletter (with the first edition coming very soon). Be sure to click the "Update Subscriptions" button at the bottom of the page.

Back-to-School with TeachingBooks.net

TeachingBooks is a great tool for teachers to seek out lesson plans and activities to bring books to life — for virtually every book that's used.

Consider describing TeachingBooks as a "Google for reading, and more" — as T.H.E. Journal wrote about us. This description gives your colleagues an image of how TeachingBooks can support their work at the start of this new school year.

TIP 1: Encourage teachers to do a search on the names of authors they are teaching. Just use the purple Search box — found in the upper right of every TeachingBooks.net screen. Folks will then find multimedia resources to enliven and stimulate thinking and discussion (from book guides to author interviews to audio excerpts of the books being read, plus authors pronouncing their names).

TIP 2: Feel free to have your teachers call [800-596-0710] or email [info@TeachingBooks.net] us if we can help support their enjoyment of TeachingBooks.

Thanks! Let us know how we can help you use and enjoy TeachingBooks! (800) 596-0710
