Reminder: Free Staff Trainings for you!

Invite us to “attend” your district-wide staff development trainings via a live, web-based presentation to your colleagues. Afterwards, we will provide you with a link to access the recorded session, which will then be available on-demand for your staff’s future reference.

 To request a free, online web seminar, please fill out and fax us the Webinar Scheduling Form found at: <http://teachingbooks.net/WebinarScheduling>

Reminder: Reading List Resources for you!

TeachingBooks now offers single-click access for everyone in your district to instantly have all of the online multimedia resources that support any of your state or district reading lists! All you need to do is email your reading lists to us.

 To send us your lists, please follow the directions found at the link below — which includes a downloadable Excel template file for you to fill out and send back to us.

Monthly “What’s New with TeachingBooks” Webinar / Phone Conference

Now you can stay up on the latest happenings of TeachingBooks, and ask any questions you may have! A monthly phone call with a brief webinar allows you to see and learn from Nick Glass (TeachingBooks’ Founder and Principal). The first five minutes will be a visual walk through and the rest will be Q&A. We hope you can join the inaugural event. Look for the details in next month’s Conduit.

School Library Journal / TeachingBooks.net Partnership

Many of you might know that last year TeachingBooks.net started a multimedia e-newsletter called Curriculum Connections in partnership with School Library Journal (SLJ).

In honor of completing our first year of working together, SLJ is inviting everyone who uses TeachingBooks to try subscribing to the print SLJ magazine. Go to the link below to subscribe, and keep three complimentary issues if you decide that the print School Library Journal is not right for you. Sign up for this special offer at: <http://schoollibraryjournal.com/tbooks>

You and your colleagues can freely subscribe to the Curriculum Connections e-newsletter at: <http://teachingbooks.net/lists.cgi>

Thanks! Let us know how we can help you use and enjoy TeachingBooks! 800-596-0710
