

CONDUIT

The Newsletter for License Coordinators of TeachingBooks.net

December 2006 Vol. 2, No. 12

In lieu of a standard Conduit, we sent this special thank you to TeachingBooks subscribers.

As 2007 approaches, we want to thank you for believing in and supporting TeachingBooks.net. It is a tremendous privilege for us to be sharing authors and K–12 book resources with you and your community. We hope that you're enjoying these online literature connections as much as we enjoy creating them.

Having just completed our third year of selling subscriptions, TeachingBooks now reaches more than 15,000 schools serving 9 million students. Thanks!

To celebrate, we asked David Small, an award-winning illustrator of books for children, to share something out of his many sketchbooks. David is known for his humorous and satirical illustrations (So You Want to Be President? — Philomel Books — earned the 2001 Caldecott Medal). These sketches were made on-the-spot in a 9x12" sketchbook using pens, brushpen and pastels.

<http://www.teachingbooks.net/Holiday2006> (682 KB)

We also invite you to revisit our program with David Small, where you'll see him show us his sketchbooks and explain their importance as well as reveal insights into the artwork of books created with his wife, Sarah Stewart, including The Journey and The Gardener.

<http://www.TeachingBooks.net/DSmall>

Thank you again for all your support of TeachingBooks. It is our pleasure working with you. Happy, healthy 2007 to you and yours.

All of us at TeachingBooks

TeachingBooks.net, LLC
313 West Beltline Highway, Suite 204
Madison, WI 53713
p 608 257.2919, 800 596.0710
f 608 327.8010

<http://www.TeachingBooks.net/home/>

© 2006 TeachingBooks.net LLC. All rights reserved.