Thanks from TeachingBooks.net

This month's Conduit is a thank you from all of us at TeachingBooks.net for the opportunity to add a multimedia dimension to the books and authors that you and your students study. It is a tremendous privilege for us to be creating online literature connections, and we sincerely hope that you're enjoying using them.

To give you another opportunity to feel a personal connection with a book creator, we asked Bryan Collier, an award-winning illustrator of picture books, to share some of his recent non-book art.

Enjoy his playful pictures by going to:

Bryan is known for his extraordinary collages made with magazines he finds on the streets of New York City. You might recognize Bryan's work from seeing Martin's Big Words (Hyperion Books for Children, 2001), a Coretta Scott King Book Award and Caldecott honor book.

Thank you again for all your support of TeachingBooks. It is our pleasure working with you.

Let us know how we can help you use and enjoy TeachingBooks! 800-596-0710
