TeachingBooks at ALA Midwinter: Want to Meet?

Nick Glass, the founder of TeachingBooks, is attending the American Library Association's Midwinter Meeting, January 21-23, 2006, in San Antonio. He's interested and available to meet with you or anyone from your community who is attending. The time and location of meetings is flexible because TeachingBooks is not exhibiting. Coordinate schedules by emailing Nick at nick@TeachingBooks.net. He looks forward to meeting you!

New Year's Resolution: Make Accessing TeachingBooks Easier

Our site redesign, launched in September 2005, includes numerous ways to more easily enter TeachingBooks, including IP authentication and simplified URLs for you to embed on your website.

We want to help ensure that your school's computers are properly set up so your staff and students can easily access TeachingBooks. The easiest thing would be for us to spend five minutes on the phone with your webmaster/IT person.

Please either email us your IT person's name and phone number, or have your IT person reach John Moore at (800) 596-0710 or john@TeachingBooks.net.

The phone call will ensure that our computer systems are working well together, giving you the easiest access possible to our service. Some details are found within the "IT Information" section of our License Coordinator Support page—click on "Support" at the top of the screen, then "License Coordinator" or go to <http://www.teachingbooks.net/show.cgi?f=coordinator>.

Share TeachingBooks Author Program Announcements

In the upcoming weeks, keep your eyes peeled for announcements about new TeachingBooks original Author Programs—including Leo and Diane Dillon, Kate DiCamillo and Walter Dean Myers. Our emails will specify the curricular areas for which the programs might be appropriate. Please forward them to everyone in your license whom you feel might benefit from knowing about them.

Until next month, enjoy TeachingBooks!
