The TeachingBooks.net Blog: Posts to help make curricular connections

Have you seen our blog (http://forum.teachingbooks.net/)? It is filled with articles and posts that share ways to integrate multimedia author and book resources into all of your content areas. You'll find featured resources; suggested uses related to timely events (such as Native American Heritage Month); and monthly guest posts written by award-winning authors and illustrators including Lois Lowry, Julius Lester, and Pat Mora. You'll also find articles tied to specific curricular and/or grade level areas; enjoy this one, for example, about High School uses. You can subscribe to it via RSS or email, too.

Follow TeachingBooks.net on Twitter

Over 650 readers are following TeachingBooks on Twitter (http://twitter.com/TeachingBooks) for links to online book and author resources. Follow today to receive regular "tweets" that explore examples of integrating multimedia into your reading and library activities. It'd be a real "tweet" to follow you, too!

This Month's "What's New Webinar" to Feature Original Author Programs

Join us this coming Tuesday for a 10-minute webinar with Nick Glass, TeachingBooks Founder. The web seminar will include demonstrations of the newest Original Author Programs. After the short presentation, feel free to participate in the phone Q&A.

Tuesday, November 17th: 4 p.m. Eastern Time, 1 p.m. Pacific Time

All you need to do is go to: <http://www.teachingbooks.net/MonthlyWebinar>

If you can't make this month's webinar, watch the recording we'll distribute after the webinar. Please note: There will be no "What's New Webinar" in December, but plan ahead for 2010 by seeing the schedule at <http://www.teachingbooks.net/WhatsNewWebinar>.
