

CONDUIT

The Newsletter for License Coordinators of TeachingBooks.net

September 2011

Vol. 7, No. 9

*This monthly newsletter provides the inside scoop on how you can maximize the use of TeachingBooks.
Please forward pertinent information to your colleagues.*

Attention All Universities and Colleges [Please skip if you're not affiliated with a college or university.]
TeachingBooks.net wants to support your research and coursework that use children's and young adult books. Just ask us to freely...

- Align our materials with the books and authors read in your classes. Send us your syllabi, and we'll give you back a permanent URL to all the online materials for your course. Email syllabi to Carin Bringelson, carin@TeachingBooks.net, or see: <http://TeachingBooks.net/ReadingLists>
- Second, invite Nick Glass, nick@TeachingBook.net, TeachingBooks' Founder, to lead a Skype session on using TeachingBooks for either students in your classrooms or for your colleagues.
- Third, we'd be delighted to review your LibGuides, course webpages, or Blackboard environments to offer specific resources from our database that directly complement your online connections to children's and young adult books.

Share & Promote Emails, Bookmarks, Flyers, & More

Remind colleagues of your access to TeachingBooks.net with ready-to-use materials found in the "Support Area" at the top of any TeachingBooks webpage, or directly at: <http://TeachingBooks.net/Share>

NEW: Self-Paced PD Module to Develop a Multimedia & Reading Implementation Plan

Let all your colleagues know that TeachingBooks now has a 90-minute program that helps every educator outline specific steps for integrating multimedia into his or her instructional work with books (K–12). Upon completion of this training, each educator receives a Certificate of Completion and a customized Multimedia & Reading Implementation Plan. Visit: <http://TeachingBooks.net/PDModule>

Nick Glass, Founder of TeachingBooks, built this module because he wants every teacher and librarian to know how easy, powerful, and fun it can be to add authors and multimedia into reading activities. And he wants the training element to be interactive and customized, and to address the inadequacies of "stand and deliver" PD and the uninspiring lecture methods of webinars.

Please share this program with the librarians and teachers in your schools. You also might find it to be a meaningful training opportunity for the clerks and other para-professionals who work in the libraries.

Voila! Put a Password-Embedded Shortcut on Your Computer Desktops

Set-up a quick and easy way to make TeachingBooks access instantaneous on any PC. Contact us for step-by-step instructions and for a password-embedded link unique to your institution: (800) 596-0710 or accounts@TeachingBooks.net

Thanks! Let us know how we can help you use and enjoy TeachingBooks! (800) 596-0710

