

What Educators Are Saying About TeachingBooks.net...

Heather Jankowski, Library Media Specialist
Hancock Elementary, Houston, TX

“TeachingBooks.net has helped me integrate technology with literature in such a seamless way. Of the hundreds of educational resources available, this one truly is the easiest to use, the most cost-effective, provides us with the most relevant, timely resources, and provides my students with valuable connections to books and literature.”

Teena Gavin, Library Coordinator
Garland ISD, Garland, TX

“Few tools bring the world of literature to our students as readily as TeachingBooks.net. From book guides for classroom studies, author background information for teacher/librarian preparation, to “live” authors speaking to students, this resource provides a one-stop-shop for all.”

Christopher A. Salerno, Ed. D., Director of Learning Media
Carrollton-Farmers Branch ISD, Farmers Branch, TX

“When I saw the scope of authors represented and the variety of media (video, audio, as well as text), I knew this resource would be an excellent teaching tool for librarians in collaboration with classroom teachers to enhance listening, speaking, literature appreciation, and writing skills. It is a teaching tool, but it is also a learning tool.”

Tara Cain, Media Specialist
Peace River Elementary School, Charlotte Harbor, FL

“The high quality author programs created by TeachingBooks.net are the main reason I chose to subscribe, but I also love how the best of all the information about an author, illustrator, or book is culled from the internet and found in one place. The resources are top notch, the site is easy to use, and the author programs are especially useful.”

Mary Croix Ludwick, Librarian
Owen Elementary School, Lewisville, TX

“I let the fourth graders view the interview with Jack Gantos and listened to him read from a ‘Joey Pigza’ book. The children LOVED the experience. At the end of two class periods, ALL my Gantos books were checked out. I have found TeachingBooks.net to be very useful in creating an interest in novels.”

Susan Geye, Library Media Specialist
Crowley Ninth Grade Campus, Crowley, TX

“TeachingBooks.net is a valuable asset to teachers because it’s so user friendly that students can access the information on their own. The support from TeachingBooks.net and the rapid growth of the database has made TeachingBooks.net one of the most widely used on my campus.”

Nancy Pelser-Borowicz, District Media Specialist
Orange County Public Schools, Orlando, FL

“We use TeachingBooks.net to increase fluency, voice intonation, vocabulary, reading skills, knowledge of authors, journal writing and introductions to various genres and book awards. For minimal cost, TeachingBooks.net reaches all students and faculty members, handing them a virtual smorgasbord of information and quality author programs.”

Debbie Swartz, Library Technology Facilitator
Mesquite Independent School District, Mesquite, TX

“TeachingBooks.net gives us the opportunity to bring popular authors into our schools via the computer, which we may not otherwise have been able to afford.”

Caroline Kienzle, Program Director Staff Development
District Irving ISD, Irving, TX

“TeachingBooks.net is used by students, teachers and staff for just in time information, for research, in the design of lessons, and in every possible way that resources are used in teaching and learning, TeachingBooks.net is used. The company knows their customer, has a service ethic, and offers a product that is just plain quality at an affordable price.”

Carlyn Gray, Director, Library Services
District Round Rock ISD, Round Rock, TX

“I really like the friendly way that the staff at TeachingBooks.net provides assistance and answers our questions. They really care about their customers and strive to make their product informative, entertaining and above all useful to us!”

Nancy L. Case, Media Supervisor
Alachua County Public Schools, Gainesville, FL

“My media specialists were wowed when we showed them what they could do with [TeachingBooks]! It is reasonably priced and yet a very useful tool for media specialists and teachers.”
